

PASTOR DEPLORES SHOW ON SUNDAY

Declares "Damaged Goods"
Should Not Have Been Produced Then, Despite Aim.

The play "Damaged Goods" was the subject of two sermons yesterday. In one sermon the production of the play was highly praised, but in the other, the fact that such a play was presented on Sunday was deplored.

The Rev. J. M. Gray, pastor of the First Methodist Church, took issue with the general praise of the production of the play and declared no play can be produced on Sunday without detriment to morals.

"I do not question the high purpose of the play," said Dr. Gray, "although from the discussion of the play it would seem that the high purpose was not its chief attraction. The use of Sunday for its production, however, was contrary to what long experience has proved to be the best morals and the most Christianlike religion."

The prayer at the beginning of the play reminded us that a noted bishop denounced the Subways as a place for the sale of intoxicants with a prayer which neither consecrated the character of the intoxicants nor commended the taste of the bishop."

He Praises Play.
The Rev. E. Everett Granger, while he did not think the play should have been produced on Sunday, declared that it was a wonderful play and demonstrated that the people of the city were not. Conditions of society exist and must be recognized. Parents must tell their children of the dangers of the social evil, and the Government must eradicate quack doctors and quack medicines.

"The play is said to have been well acted," said Dr. Granger, "I did not see it myself. It is a shocking play because it deals with shocking conditions. It is not vulgar or immodest. It deals fearlessly, plainly, heroically, and scientifically with a great social evil. And it puts the sins where they belong—on the parents."

Declaring that President Wilson is setting an example to the nation in the observance of Sunday rest, the Rev. Wallace Radcliffe yesterday addressed a meeting in the Metropolitan Church yesterday on the observance of Sunday. Dr. Radcliffe stated that the example of those in high official places is generally followed by those in the everyday walks of life.

Wants All To Aid.
At the close of the meeting resolutions were adopted calling for aid from every household in the District for the passage of a bill providing for the proper observance of Sunday.

Describing the first judgment day when Lot made his exit from the city of Sodom, and declaring that man must now, as at that time, look to "God and the mountains," the Rev. W. F. Cook discussed "A Judgment Day Scene" before the Washington Temple Congregation yesterday afternoon. The scene of the righteous man of Sodom fleeing before the devastating flames of the city was described by the speaker, who declared that so many of this world turn, like Lot's wife, for things which will do us no good in the life beyond.

"Mankind should ever seek the mountain of God," he said, "the mountain of righteousness, the mountain of the living God, and remember that Biblical tradition says that Sodom now lies at the bottom of the Dead Sea, in which no fish live and over which the birds of the air are afraid to fly."

The twentieth anniversary of St. Paul's Lutheran Church was observed yesterday with special services. The services began with Sunday school at 9:30 o'clock and continued through the day until the evening service. At the evening service the Rev. John T. Hudson delivered a sermon showing the history of the church and the work done since it was founded, seventy years ago.

PUBLIC ASSEMBLY PLACE THEIR AIM

Anacostians Want School Attic Reconstructed and Fitted Up to Accommodate Meetings of Civic Associations—Citizens Want Pennsylvania Avenue Improved.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU.
ANACOSTIA, D. C., APRIL 14.

The absence of any adequate place for public assembly in the school buildings of Anacostia has led the Anacostia Citizens' Association to order a report on the situation. Dr. James A. Watson is the chairman of the committee to which the matter was referred.

An assembly hall was intended, it is declared, in the attic story of the Ketcham School, but it is unavailable because of a narrow stairway, not fireproofed, and a lack of seats. Chairs are borrowed, the association has heard, when a public gathering takes place in the school rooms. In the Van Buren School and the annex building there are no suitable halls. An effort will be made to have the attic in the Ketcham School reconstructed to serve as a central place of meeting.

Petitions are being circulated in southern Maryland for presentation to the Maryland delegation in Congress urging that Pennsylvania avenue from Branch avenue to the District line be placed in a condition better suited for traffic. The East Washington Heights Citizens' Association, the Randle Highlands Citizens' Association and the Minnesota Avenue Citizens' Association are interested in the same cause.

At the request of many citizens of Congress Heights, who desire to be present at the meetings, the Public Improvement Association of the suburb, W. W. Price, president, has decided to hold its meetings on the second Wednesday of each month hereafter instead of on the second Tuesday.

Caving-in of a culvert in Stanton road between School street and Douglass road was the only serious damage to the roads here from the rains.

Prof. and Mrs. Heilbrunner, of Munich, today were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. S. I. Franz, of the Government Hospital for the Insane.

Prof. and Mrs. Bleuler, of Zurich, Switzerland, have left the Government Hospital for the Insane, where they were the guests of Dr. William A. White, the superintendent.

Thomas and Harold McNery, of Detroit, Mich., who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Walsh, in Maple View avenue, for several weeks, have returned to their home. The young men are cousins of Mr. Walsh.

George Wood, eighty-two years old, veteran and pioneer resident of Anacostia, who has been confined to his home, in Minnesota avenue, for a number of weeks, is seriously ill.

There will be a full in Masonic affairs in Anacostia this week, but next week will witness two special events. Milton J. Fillius, worshipful master of Anacostia Lodge, No. 21, F. A. A. M., is arranging for a conferral of the master mason's degree by a visiting delegation, to be followed by an entertainment, on Monday evening next. Elceta Chapter, No. 2, Order of the Eastern Star, will produce a play on the following night.

Doctor and Nurse Wed, Met in Operating Room

Had not a serious accident happened to a laborer about two years ago, Dr. and Mrs. Boyd R. Read, the latter formerly Miss Edith White Rinker of Winchester, Va., and a nurse at the Emergency Hospital, would probably never have met. The accident was a fall from a ladder while working in the hospital operating room that the physician, then resident at the institution, came in contact with the present Mrs. Read. The couple, who were married Saturday at the home of the bridegroom, 1829 North Capitol street, are now on their honeymoon, which will include a visit to New York and the Bermudas.

The best man at the wedding was Dr. Arthur M. Zinkham, resident physician at the Emergency Hospital.

Prize Winning Flower Named "Eleanor Wilson"

Fame has indeed cast its shadows over Miss Eleanor Wilson, the President's youngest daughter. She had a flower named after her. It is the Eleanor Wilson snapdragon, a new flower which has just won a blue ribbon at the Grand Central Palace flower show in New York. The word snapdragon does not appeal to the feminine mind, but the color of this highly cultivated old-fashioned garden aristocrat is delicate and beautiful.

The Eleanor Wilson snapdragon was originated by F. W. Fletcher & Co., of Auburndale, Mass. Its spikes are large and perfectly shaped and are like a deep, rich pink that is more like a strawberry shade than anything else. The shade of pink is a trifle deeper than the one introduced under this name in silk materials, but the two are as close as art and nature come.

Boston College Wins Gec. Town Debate

The annual debate between the Philodemic Debating Society, Georgetown, and the Fulton Debating Society, Boston College, was won by the visiting team last night. The contest was held in Gaston Hall, Georgetown University, and was attended by a large number of students and friends of the university.

The decision of the judges was unanimously for the affirmative side, which was upheld by the Boston debaters: Francis X. Salloway, Edward A. Sullivan, and Leo M. Murray, Georgetown, was represented by James P. Needham, Bernard S. Brady, and David L. Waldron.

The judges were Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff, U. S. A.; Judge E. W. Booth, of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, and Henry Heisler, chief of marine service, of the Weather Bureau. Paul W. McQuillen, vice president of the Philodemic Society, presided.
